Ten Tasting.

There are, sigs Dr. Dane, probably more than a hundred firms engaged in tea tasting in this city. In all their offices there are large tables with round revelving tops. A cico of teacaps is placed along the edge of these. The tea taster sits down before the display of ercekery and tastes one oup after another, moving the table top around. In the cutre of the talls is a pair of toales, with a silver half dime in one of the balances. One or two large ket tles are kept constantly with boiling water in them. When a sample of tea is to be tasted. es much is weighed cut as will balance the half dime. This is put in a tescup and the boiling water poured on. The tea taster then stirs up the leaves, lifes them on his spoon, and inhales the aroma. At the same time he generally takes a sip of the infusion, holds it in his mouth for a short time and then spits it cut. Enormous bress ouspadors, holding two or three gallens, receive the tea thus tasted and the contents of the cups that have been examined. On some occusions, when a large amount of tea of a certain kind is to be bought, many samples of this are brought in from different houses. The buyers and sollers sit around the revolving table with the samples made into infusions in the caps before them. These are tasted all around, the "body," "fineness," "toastiness," &c., are learnedly discussed, and the poorer specimens discirated! Then those that are left are tasted again, and the number further reduced. So it goes on until the article which unites the desired quality and pries is

The skill displayed at these "drawings" quite remarkable. A toa taster will detect not only the quality of a tea as regards age, strength, flavor, fineness, &c., but he can tell in which of the numerous districts in China the tea was grown. The facts regarding the different sam ples are sometimes put on the bottom of the cups, where they cannot be seen. The cups are then mixed up, and the infusions tasted again and sorted cut simply by the flavors .-Medical Record.

A CERPSE'S FREAK. - Several days ago Mr. J. McCloud of Faulkner county, Ark., died of TUTT'S HAIR DYB. rhoumatism of the stomach. A large party volunieered to sit up with the corpse, and when sed men were seen, sallowed by the mellowing light of tallow eardles. The minister came and of $1. entering the room, remarked: "Earth to earth and ashes to ashes." The corps: ley on the table covered with a sheet. "He has gone over the read we must all travel," and the minister. A night bird, with a mouraful cy, answered. A doughter of the die exed came is minister. in with an acron full of ten cekes, which with a slow shull; she distributed around the room. "We should prepare to follow him," said the minister, explotively blowing aske counts to ward the corpec as though he wished his words to wait away with winning sweetness. The night bird again cried out, and the company sat tilently chewing cake. "I thought I saw the she t move," and one of the wachers. See if there is a cut under i." The company sat still.

"I am confident that the short moved," said the wan. The minister arose and lifted the sheet, and standing, he looked at the pallid face of the dead man. The corpse's head left the table. The minister fell back. Stiff, stark and terrible, the corpse slowly arose from the table and attained a sitting posture. Tho legs remained stretced out and the arms remained folded .-The women shricked and ran from the room, and the minister, reprimanding them for their weakness and want of confidence, climbed a fence and stood in a turnip patch. When the frightened people saw that the corpse did not intend to follow, they went back into the house, The corpse still retained the upright, rigid posture, stiff as the attitude struck by an amateur on the stage. With fears somewhat allayed, the minister advanced, and placing a hand on the deat man's breast, pressed him backward. Proportionately as his head went down, his heels came up, and when his head touched the boards his heels were high in the air. The cause of the dead man's freak was then discovered. The muscles of the stomach, distorted by rhoumatism, were contracting. It required the efforts of two men to straighten the corpse. A gentleman who was present declares he never spent such a fearful night, and, with Clarence, aids: "I would not pass another such night, though 'twere to buy a world of happy days, so full of dismal terror was the time." when his head touched the boards his heels was the time."

Dr. J. F. HAYWOOD, of New York, volun tarily inderses it. Read what he says:
New York, Sept. 19, 1877.
Dr. Tutt: Dear Sir—During this year I treatod nine hundred cases of lung diseases. In the lower wards of the city the cases were of a very tevere type. It was there my attention was called to Tutt's Expectorant, and I confess my surprise at its wonderful power. During a prac-tice of twenty years I have never known a medclice to twenty years I have never known a medicine to act as premptly and with such happy effects. It instantly subdued the most violen fits of coughing, and invariably cured the disease in a few days. I cheerfully endorse it as the best lung medicine I ever used.

Dr. Tutt: Sir—I have been suffering for nearly two years with a severe cough. When I commenced taking your Expectorant I was reduced to one hundred and sixteen pounds in weight. I had tried almost everything; had terrible night sweats. I have taken half dozen bottles. The night sweats have left me, the cough has disappeared, and I have gained fifteen pounds in flesh. I recommend it to all my friends. With great respect, OLIVER RICE.
